

FRANKENSTEIN READINGS

Readings can be downloaded at blogg.nord.no/frankenreads. Please find and download the reading that corresponds with the time you have selected. From there, please practice your reading from the beginning to end points (these are highlighted in yellow) in order to make sure you are comfortable reading your selection in the given time frame of five or ten minutes.

A marked copy of the novel will be available on the day, but you might prefer to use the one you have practiced with. You can also find the specific passage on line (archive.org is good) and print a large-text version, if you prefer.

You do not have to read loudly, but it would be nice if you could infuse your reading with a bit of dramatic emphasis. This is a Gothic novel, so feel free to camp it up a bit. ☺
